BLACK KERR

Cello Concerto in D Minor

Alfred Music
The book provides a historical survey of the wind band's music and denotes how historical and cultural developments have influenced it over the course of time. Although the modern wind band developed first in the 19th century, it has its roots in the wind music of ancient times, and music survives that has been composed since the Middle Ages. Therefore, this book covers the music from that time to the present, including the dance music of the Renaissance, the Harmoniemusik of the Classical Period, and the nationalistic music of the Romantic Period, as well as the major wind band repertoire developed after 1900.

Concert for Violin and Orchestra, Op. 33 Alfred Music Publishing Solos for Young Violinists is a graded series of works ranging from elementary to advanced levels representing an exciting variety of styles and techniques for violinists -- a valuable resource for teachers and students of all ages. Many of the works in this collection have long been recognized as stepping stones to the major violin repertoire, while others are newly published pieces for further choices of study. This title is available in Music Prodigy.

Concertino Taylor & Francis
The Concerto was composed in 1791. This version, newly arranged for guitar and piano by Gregg Nestor using the composers original orchestration, is the only one out of four that was written in the key of D Major, and contains no slow second movement, perhaps due to the composer's untimely passing.

Twelve-tone and serial music were dominant forms of composition following World War II and remained so at least through the mid-1970s. In 1961, Ann Phillips Basart published the pioneering bibliographic work in the field.
