La ville vue d'en bas London : Macmillan

Published to accompany a major exhibition of Jean-Baptiste-Camille Corot's paintings held in Paris and Ottawa during 1996, and forthcoming to New York. From nearly 3,000 paintings by this poetic 19th-century artist, the curators chose 163 works, which are reproduced here along with full art-historical discussions of each. Three major essays chronicle Corot's life and the development of his art; additional essays elucidate the subject of forgeries and describe the collecting of his works. Much original new scholarship is included along with a review of the scholarly literature, a concordance, and a chronology. 9.5x12.5"Annotation copyrighted by Book News, Inc., Portland, OR Spatial planning has embraced the idea of dealing with territorial inequalities by focusing on equipment logic on a national scale, and then economic development on a local scale. Today, this issue is creating new angles of debate with strong political resonances (e.g. Brexit, French gilets jaunes movement). Interpretations of these movements are often quick and binary, such as: the contrast between metropolises and peripheries, between cities and the countryside, between the north and the south or between the east and the west of the European Union. Territorial Inequalities sheds light on the social, political and operational implications of these divergences. The chapters cover the subject at different scales of action and observation (from the neighborhood to the world), but also according to their interdependences. To deal with such a vast and ambitious theme, the preferred approach is that of territorial development in terms of public policy, namely spatial planning.

The word is central to both naive and expert theories of language. Yet the definition of 'word' remains problematic. The 42 chapters of this Handbook offer a variety of perspectives on this most basic and elusive of linguistic units.

Sketch of a Descriptive Journey Through Switzerland

La désindustrialisation à l'oeuvre depuis les années 1970 a confiné des pans entiers des classes populaires aux marges du salariat. Tenues à l'écart des principaux circuits marchands, ces populations ont dû réorganiser leur travail et leur vie quotidienne de manière à satisfaire les besoins essentiels à leur subsistance, selon une dynamique qui confère une centralité nouvelle à l'espace urbain : pour elles, l'accès à la plupart des ressources matérielles et symboliques nécessaires au maintien d'une existence digne est intimement lié à leur ancrage territorial. Or, les pratiques attachées à cette centralité populaire sont aujourd'hui contestées. Prises dans la course à la métropolisation, certaines villes voudraient en définitive remplacer ces populations, dont elles considèrent qu'elles "ne font rien" par d'autres issues des classes moyennes et supérieures, n'hésitant pas à agiter le spectre du communautarisme et celui du ghetto. Il s'agit, au contraire, de saisir ce qu'impliquent les processus contemporains de fragmentation de l'espace social pour des personnes qui ne sont ni plus ni moins que des travailleuses et des travailleurs.
