After a tumultuous relationship with the father of her children, love is the last thing on Ansinette's mind. She is so busy trying to keep her head above water and chase two growing boys that she overlooked the chocolate brother with the chiseled chest who lives across the hall. Well, she didn't overlook him, she definitely noticed. But with her ex trying to ease his way back in her life, she doesn't want to complicate the situation any further. Marcus, the chocolate brother with the chiseled chest, has noticed Ansinette too. Her flawless skin, wide hips and sense of humor drew him in on their first encounter. Marcus is putting the pieces of his life back together. After a big mistake lands him in jail, he just wants the simple things in life: to own a home and to have a family to go home to. He believes he can have that with Ansinette, but can he get her to believe it too?

Autobiographie en kiswahili d'un magistrat et poète tanzanien Le texte en kiswahili de ce livre correspond au manuscrit de l'autobiographie de Mathias E. Mnyampala (1917-1969). Il constitue un trésor du patrimoine littéraire tanzanien qui était demeuré inédit pendant presque une quarantaine d'année. Il a été retrouvé en 2007 à Dodoma (Tanzanie) par Mathieu Roy, qui l'a ensuite édité et publié, en association avec le TUKI (TATAKI à présent, de l'Université de Dar es Salaam) et Charles M. Mnyampala, le fils de l'auteur qui conservait le manuscrit. Mathias E. Mnyampala est un grand auteur tanzanien de langue swahilie qui a écrit plus de vingt-cinq livres. Il était déjà reconnu par ses pairs de son vivant et a présidé l'association nationale des poètes d'expression swahilie et d'aménagement de la poésie (UKUTA) jusqu'en 1966. Il a écrit des centaines de poèmes dans le style classique ou néo-classique, il a inventé de nouveaux mètres, écrit des essais de géographie, de théologie politique, d'ethno-histoire. Puis il a sombré dans l'oubli. Mathias E. Mnyampala a aussi connu une brillante carrière de juriste, depuis l'administration coloniale, jusqu'au gouvernement de la région de Mpanda dans l'Ouest tanzanien en 1963 et la fonction de magistrat, dans les juridictions primaires de Dar-es-Salaam, la capitale économique (et alors administrative) de la République Unie de Tanzanie. Cette réédition ne comprend que le texte du manuscrit de l'autobiographie, sans les images reproduites dans la première édition parue en 2013 chez le même éditeur. L'intention en est de baisser le prix du livre de manière très significative afin que l'oeuvre soit durablement accessible.

This sourcebook was created because science should be memorable, not memorisable. from the Introduction to The Everyday Science Sourcebook, Revised 2nd Edition Think of this unique reference book as Inspiration Central for elementary and middle school science teachers. Fully updated with content selected to build on the AAAS and National Science Education Standards, this new edition is full of hundreds of entries that can spark your thinking the next time you need to fill in a gap in your curriculum, add a fresh element to your textbook lessons, or extend and enrich hands-on activities. The Everyday Science Sourcebook is structured like an easy-to-use thesaurus. Just look up a topic in the Index, note the reference number, and then use that number to find a wealth of related activities in the Entry section. For example, looking up meteorology can lead you to notes on the Earth's temperature. From there, you'll see entries on how students can make a liquid thermometer, graph air temperatures, and measure the conversion of solar energy to heat energy. Six broad content categories provide the framework for the main body of this book, the Entry section: Inorganic matter Organic matter Energy Inference models Technology Instructional apparatus, materials, and systems The Everyday Science Sourcebook deserves a prominent spot on your bookshelf. Refer to it daily as a springboard for ideas that make science memorable.

In the telling of the history of the Church Missionary Society (CMS) in Tanzania, the initiatives, contributions, and experiences of indigenous teachers have too often been neglected in favour of stories of sacrifices of Western missionaries. Bishop Mwita Akiri redresses this bias by using a socio-historical approach, written from an Afro-centric tradition, to evaluate the contributions and experiences of indigenous agents in the growth of Christianity in Tanzania. This book underscores the significance of oral tradition in African historiography and challenges the claim that foreign missionaries succeeded in destroying African cultures, when they are in fact alive and well. This much-needed research also provides a model for dialogue between the perspective of Christian missions and that of African religious and social heritage in order to continue forward with a Christianity that is authentic and also distinctly African.

This book deals with an agricultural production and marketing system known as contract farming (CF). In this system, a public or private agency purchases the crops of independent farmers through contracts, often providing inputs, technical assistance and marketing. CF has a long history in developed countries and has spread to the Third World. The book uses case studies from North America, Latin America and Africa to assess the experience to date and provide guidelines for the use of CF in the future.

"In a world moving very rapidly on both urbanization and globalization, cities in the developing world face both serious challenges and attractive opportunities. They can reap the benefits of economic growth by creating an enabling investment climate: well-functioning markets, institutions that support sound governance and regulatory regimes, and public infrastructure and social services. At the same time they can create an environment where their citizens are both included and empowered. And because cities do not exist in isolation, urban policies and programs must also be coordinated with.

Recent seismic shifts in Congo and Rwanda have exposed the continued volatility of the state of affairs in central Africa. As African states have shaken off their postcolonial despots, new leaders with sweeping ideas about a pan-African alliance have emerged -- and yet the internecine struggles go on. What is Africa's problem? As one of the leaders expressing a broad and forceful vision for Africa's future, Uganda's Yoweri K. Museveni is perhaps better placed than anyone in the world to address the very question his book poses. In 1986, after more than a decade of armed struggle, a rebellion led by Museveni toppled the dictatorship of Idi Amin, and Museveni, at 42, became president of Uganda, a country at that time in near total disarray. Since then, Uganda has made remarkable strides in political, civic, and economic arenas, and Museveni has assumed the role of "the eminence grise of the new leadership in central Africa" (Philip Gourevitch, The New Yorker). As such, he has proven a powerful force for change, not just in Uganda but across the turbulent span of African states. This collection of Museveni's writings and speeches lays out the possibilities for social change in Africa. Working with a broad historical understanding and an intimate knowledge of the problems at hand, Museveni describes how movements can be formed to foster democracy, how class consciousness can transcend tribal differences in the development of democratic institutions, and how the politics of identity operate in postcolonial Africa. Museveni's own contributions to the overthrow of Zaire's Mobutu Sese Seko and to the political transformation of Uganda suggest the kind of change that may sweep Africa in decades to come. What Is Africa's Problem? gives a firsthand look at what those changes might be, how they might come about, and what they might mean.
