This book is a collection of humorous stories meant to uplift the human spirit. Some of the stories are funny, capable of making the reader laugh, smile, and relax. These stories teach, instruct, educate, and elicit good moral conduct. The purpose of a story is not to give a scientific explanation to any issue. Instead, a story is to teach us about life. Stories bring happiness and consolation to the downhearted and the brokenhearted. Stories are meant not only for children. Everybody listens to and tells stories. Grandparents tell their grandchildren stories. Parents tell their children stories. Storytelling is a means of social communication and education. "Insightful and fascinating! African Animal Tales provide a rare insight into the inner working of animals' social life." -Rev. Dr. Emmanuel Udoanwankwo- Circles In A Forest New York : Longmans, Green

This volume contains a selection of children's stories, specially devised to be read aloud in around three minutes, so parents' can plan storytime around a bedtime routine.

Saul Barnard is a man with a self-imposed mission - to halt the wanton destruction of the Knysna Forest, home of wild elephants and the fiercely independent families of woodcutters. For years he has protected the forest from intruders, and has developed a mystical kinship with the spirit of Old Foot, the majestic and indomitable bull elephant. When word goes round that Old Foot is on the rampage, Saul is propelled towards a terrible confrontation that will change his future for ever.

This is Book 1 in the series. One reason for writing these books came from the need to gather together the hotchpotch array of facts dotted about in bits and pieces all over the Web, and then to add to them facts from my own knowledge and experience. I hope as a result that you'll find more of the facts you're looking for, more easily, in just one place. It also seemed to me in looking at information on the Internet, that articles about animals were often either very "scientific", with headings like "taxonomy" and "societal considerations" at the one extreme, or else over-simple picture books or articles for beginning readers at the other. Animals, like us, have personalities – and neither of these approaches gave them the "roundness" and depth of character they deserve. The books try to remedy this.

Perhaps the best way to illustrate what they offer is to give just a very small sampling from the animal descriptions inside this book: ...the aardvark is like no other animal in Africa – or anywhere else, for that matter! It looks as if it was put together, like a Lego set, from bits and pieces of other animals – none of which, as it happens, are its relatives. Its nose looks a bit like that of a pig – which explains the name "Aardvark", which is Afrikaans for "Earth Pig"! Its ears are as big as a rabbit's. Its sticky tongue is longer than a chameleon's ... It has claws like a bear's.... on webbed feet like a duck's!... and a kangaroo would be proud of its tapering, muscular tail. Yet its closest (but very distant) living relative is the elephant.... ... Buffalos are fiercely protective of one another. Calves are pushed into the middle of a circle of adult buffalos when threatened, and injured animals are also sheltered by their companions in a similar way. Buffalos which have been blinded are protected by the herd, even while it is on the move Not content with simply defending weaker animals in the herd, buffalos have been known to seek out and destroy the cubs of lions which attack them to prevent the cubs from growing up and attacking in the future..... .... If you're a male baboon and want to be "king" of the troop you have to fight for the privilege! As a female, however, you can only be "queen" if your mother is queen before you. And if she isn't then as a little girl baboon, you have to be content to grow up with whatever rank your own mother has - presumably as a baboon duchess, if you're lucky; a serving wench if you're not!... ...For young children the sound produced at a rock concert is not a problem - but for their parents, it's positively painful! That's because for us humans (parents, anyway!) the level at which noise becomes painful is 120

"decibels"(which is the name scientists give to a measurement of noise!), and a good rock concert can reach around 115 decibels (which is the point where even scientists start to understand the measurements they use!). Bats can make sounds up to 140 decibels! That's louder than anything other than a fighter jet in the air, and also louder than any other mammal on the ground, either! But why does it need to be so loud?... .. Usain Bolt is the fastest human being on earth. His average speed over 100 metres is 37.58 km/h (23.35 mph) and his fastest recorded speed is 44.16 km/h (27.44 mph). But just how fast is that? Well, Usain would have to run at his TOP speed to outrun an elephant, which averages 40 km/h over a short distance, he would have difficulty catching his neighbour's domestic cat, with a top speed of over 48 km/h, and against his own pet cheetah (named "Lightning Bolt", would you believe!), he literally wouldn't even get out of the starting blocks! In fact, driving one of his Ferraris on the M1 in the UK (with a maximum speed limit of 112.7 km/h) Usain still wouldn't catch Lightning Bolt over 100 metres with the animal's top speed of around 115 km/h! These are just a sample of what the book offers. Get it now! The Animal Story Book Macmillan Children's Books moves away, her house and garden are left abandoned-but not by the animals. The place is soon overrun by wild creatures. But then the old lady's nephew and his family move in.

After the old lady

Language is power. When animals take possession of words and, especially begin with names, they significantly move to the realm of freedom, Just like slaves who have acquired manumission and can speak and write freely. In this book of short stories, the animals assume the characters of humans and therefore speak with authority of people in different life circumstances. Other animals of the same or different species adapt and adopt certain well-defined stratagems in order to cope with the prolongation of their life spaces. In this respect, they serve as role models or prime examples of emulation.

Grové was arguably the first composer to incorporate Black African elements into the fabric of his music, venturing far beyond mere couleur locale to forge a creative synthesis of the indigenous and the "Western". His vast oeuvre encompasses every genre, from opera and ballet to chamber music, orchestral works and song. But he is also a fine essayist, and his short fiction has received praise from André P. Brink. This is the first study of its kind to be devoted to a South African composer.

Almal hou daarvan om goeie stories te lees. Jy sal dit ook graag lees oor honde, katte, dra, konyn, voëls, vis en ander gekke insekte. Sommige van hulle is hartseer, sommige is snaaks, en sommige is albei. Ander vertel dat mense na God terugkeer weens die dood van 'n nie-menslike dier. Maar een ding wat al hierdie stories gemeen het, is dat hulle jou hart en siel sal raak. Die onderstreepende beginsels sal waarheid, liefde, wedersydse respek, geregtigheid, regtigheid, goddelikheid, prioriteit tot gemeenskaps-eenheid wees, ens...

Alle mense, insluitende die ou mense, sal graag hierdie stories lees. U is welkom om hierdie stories met u vriende te deel. Hierdie is stories wat steeds meer gewild word namate die tyd verbygaan.
