Day Trading Journal

The Day Trading Log & Investing Journal (8.5 x 11 inch paperback, cream paper, glossy cover, 131pp) from Incredibly Useful Notebooks. We have achieved a TRADING JOURNAL design that is both functional and intuitive for traders and investors of stocks, options, futures, and forex (even cryptocurrencies). This book is not meant to replace either the trade confirmations from your broker or any P/L (profit & loss) spreadsheets that you might use. Instead, this book is a written journal that helps you track your overall trades as you make them, with room for your thoughts and notes on market conditions, profit targets, stops, and more. With close tracking of your trading and investing plans comes refinement and better results. That's why we created this trading log. Designed with the active stock, options, futures, and forex trader in mind, there is room on every page for either two separate sessions (morning and afternoon, for example), or two separate products, and a wide array of other uses. Busy traders might use a two-page spread as four time periods of a single trading day: overnight/ pre-market (8-9:30AM EST), opening session (9:30-11AM EST), mid-day (11-1 PM EST), and the closing session (1-4PM EST), for example. This design is intended to be useful for intraday and short-term traders, as well as longer-term use by swing traders, and for critical monthly/ quarterly/annual trading review. The simple act of writing down each trade chronicles the decision-making process of each trader. Many traders believe that written trading logs and journals like this increase one's overall emotional control of the "fear vs. greed" balance at play in every market.

My Trading Journey

This book is how I traded $100,000 over a 12-month period using options. It's is a collection of every trade I made in 2012 in my taxable account. I made more than 100 individual stock and ETF option trades (naked puts, covered calls, put spreads, call spreads and some other option combinations) in addition to a handful of option assignments. At the beginning of each year, I transfer gains to another account so I start with $100,000 in this actively traded account. I didn't add or subtract any money aside from this opening adjustment. Not to spoil the ending, but I can tell you in advance, I made a realized gain every month in 2012. I did this by using options to reduce my risk and increase my profit potential. Like every (honest) trader, I made mistakes and had realized losses. However, I didn't get stuck on those mistakes. I learned and moved on. I hope that by reading this book, readers will be able to learn from my mistakes and properly executed trades to increase their rate of success each month, year in and year out. This isn't the type of book that will create a fantasy world of how easy it is to get rich quickly with little risk. I'm not writing to promote another business you have to buy in to. Rather than explain how options work in theory, this book explains how to sell naked puts and covered calls by showing actual trade details and my reasoning for each trade decision. Managing risks, keeping a trader's journal and learning from mistakes will help investors minimize losses and improve returns in the long-term. This is my method for achieving my investment goals.

Journal includes three main sections Rules, Routines, & Goals Trade Checklist & Journal Pages Trade Log Also includes example trading rules and routines that you're free to use or adapt to your style. Because we firmly believe in trading according to defined rules and a complete system, we've designed the trade checklist & journal pages in section two to cover our 5 Pillars of Any Successful Trading System: What to Trade When to Enter When to Exit Strategy Expectation They act like a pre-flight checklist for pilots, or a game plan for sports teams. The Trade Log is a shorthand, quick view of your trading results and progress. You'll also get access to free trade spreadsheet tools to help you evaluate and record trades digitally to supplement your paper trading log. Day Trading Log and Investing Journal

WHY YOU SHOULD HAVE A TRADING JOURNAL? taking notes of your trade results will tell you how much you're losing or profiting from the markets. If you're consistently losing money, your trade journal will quantify this. Measuring your results means that you can improve upon them. If you're not recording your trades, how will you know if you're improving? Why you should review your trades: By recording your trades, you're then able to look back and review them. A new trader is not going to be a master trader overnight. It takes continuous improvement to get better at anything. By reviewing all the trades you take on a weekly or monthly basis will help with this. You can go back and look at your trade entry, management, position sizing and exit. Was it a good entry? Did your risk allocation meet your rules? Was your exit timed in line with your strategy? If your answer to each question was yes, then that was a good trade, regardless of the outcome. If no, then use your trading journal to learn from it going forward. This trading journal features: Large 9" x 11" size. 120 Pages Goals Sections - for you to set your long term and short term trading goals. Strategy sections - for you to write your own trading strategies with space to sketch chart pattern diagrams.
