The Billionaire's Apprentice

Independently Published
The minute I found out my real identity, things were never the same. Now I have a bookshop on the brink of bankruptcy and I have no idea how to get my shop profitable, until my brother's best friend shows up to be my new business coach. Huxley Hamilton is a billionaire who is smart and suave with women falling at his feet. He is also frustrating, infuriating, bossy and a playboy, his reputation precedes him wherever he goes. He shows an interest in my bookshop as a favor to my brother, but I don't need his help, his annoying smirk or the feeling of butterflies that dance inside of me whenever he is around. We don't see eye to eye at first but then the tables turn when he starts taking an interest in me. His hand fits too well around my waist, his protectiveness feels exactly like what I have been missing and he pushes me to do things that are well out of my comfort zone. But the magnetic attraction we have stalls when one of his ex's comes back into town. You know what they say, once a playboy, always a playboy. Except now I know how to play the game. I just don't know all the players and I think they are all after me.

Proposing on national TV was the plan. Falling for my best friend's sister wasn't. Drew Confession: I went on a reality TV show to get over my best friend's sister. Guess what? It didn't work. You know what's even worse? The show hired her to help me get engaged before the finale airs. Kate When I agreed to help my high school crush get engaged, I thought it would be simple. What I didn't expect was for old feelings to resurface. Or for Drew to remember our stolen kiss from seven years ago. My career depends on convincing him to propose to someone else. Messing that up would be stupid, right?

It's no secret I've always had a crush on Damon Strickland. My best friend's older brother and the center of every single one of my fantasies. He's a walking, talking temptation. That cocky grin and those broad, athletic shoulders. You know what they say about a man with big hands right? Growing up, we always tormented one another. I was the nagging, annoying little girl he hated. And he was the man-whoring, douchebag I couldn't seem to get over. Now as adults he actually came through and helped me land a job at my dream company. How the hell am I supposed to focus when all I can think about is tearing that tight suit from his tempting body! What's even worse? He forgot to mention he's my boss.

Stuck With The Billionaire Best Man

Independently Published
My new boss has it all. In spades. Gorgeous green eyes? Check. Hard-and-sexy body? Check. Intelligence? Check. Success? A big fat billionaire... Check. Too bad I haven't started out on the best foot. My big mouth has already turned him against me, and tempting good looks and success aside, Trent Turner is no peach either. He's stubborn and thick-headed, and son of a fruitcake, he thinks he knows everything there is to know about the hotel business. With him running the development of the new Vanderturn New Orleans Hotel and me doing the design, our work relationship is far too intimate for two people who absolutely despise one another. But that's not all. See, he isn't just my billionaire boss from hell. He's my new neighbor, too. Same city. Same building. Same floor. Trent Turner is my billionaire boss next door. Holy moly, let's hope my career-and hormones-can survive. Disclaimer: If you generally love to suffer, hate fun of any kind, and are allergic to laughter, this book is not for you.

Just as WASPs, Irish-Catholics and Our Crowd Jews once made the ascent from immigrants to powerbrokers, it is now the Indian-American's turn. Citigroup, PepsiCo and Mastercard are just a handful of the Fortune 500 companies led by a group known as the "Twice Blessed." Yet little is known about how these Indian emigres (and children of emigres) rose through the ranks. Until now... The collapse of the Galleon Group--a hedge fund that managed more than $7 billion in assets--from criminal charges of insider trading was a sensational case that pitted prosecutor Preet Bharara, himself the son of Indian immigrants, against the best and brightest of the South Asian business community. At the center of the case was self-described King of Kings, Galleon's founder Raj Rajaratnam, a Sri-Lankan-born, Wharton-educated billionaire. But the most shocking allegation was that the éminence grise of Indian business, Rajat Gupta, was Rajaratnam's accomplice and mole. If not for Gupta's nose-to-the-grindstone rise to head up McKinsey & Co and a position on the Goldman Sachs board, men like Rajaratnam would have never made it to the top of America's moneyed elite. Author Anita Raghavan crisscrosses the globe from Wall Street boardrooms to Delhi's Indian Institute of Technology as she uncovers the secrets of this subculture--an incredible tale of triumph, temptation and tragedy.

Let's say you're an independent, self-sufficient woman who runs the family company and you find yourself falling for your little brother's best friend. Now, more than ever, you need to count all the reasons why you need to abandon falling. Abandon Falling #1 - He's a womanizer. Hasn't had a serious relationship a day in his life and changes women more often than he changes his sheets.

Abandon Falling #2 - He's never serious. He cracks one-liners, mostly at your expense. Abandon Falling #3 - When things go wrong, he seems unfazed and always remains in control. It's so annoying.

Abandon Falling #4 - He has tattoos. Lots of them. Everywhere. Not to mention, he owns a tattoo parlor. (Damn it! Why doesn't that sound like a bad thing anymore?)

Abandon Falling #5 - There's a growing list of how different you two are. You can't get along for fifteen minutes—a lifetime together would land one of you in prison. Keep repeating those reasons and drown yourself in work. Pretend you don't notice his good qualities or how enticing he looks without a shirt, and do not, I repeat, do not agree to live with the man while your place is being repaired from flood damage. Trust me, even the strongest of us can only forego temptation for so long.

Part of the Melissa Schroeder Instalove Collection: Same World. Any Order. Individual Love. I've been in love with Milo Darling for as long as I can remember. He's my brother's best friend and would never be interested in a curvy girl like me. I've seen the women he's dated in the past, and let's just say they don't look like me. I've come to terms with it...mainly. When I hear my ex is going to be at a charity ball I have to attend, the natural thing is to ask Milo. He's safe, and he's a gentleman, and well, who wouldn't want to spend the night with the most beautiful man ever created. Only, he's not looking at me like I'm just a friend, and when he kisses me on the dance floor, I lose every thought I have ever had in my life. And, yeah, maybe, I'm going to be okay with a one-night fling with the man of my dreams. Who can blame a girl for taking him up on his offer? And that night? I will just say that it blows my world apart. But I know as soon as the sun rises, this girl will have to put on her big girl pants and get on with my life. Because there is one thing I understand and that's that girls like me don't get happily ever afters with guys like him.

Author Note: We are back with the Prescotts again, but this time, the meddling sister gets her man. There's hijinks, a trip to a drag queen brunch, Milo in a tux, and scene in front of a mirror that embarrassed this author. As always with an Instalove Collection book, low drama, high romance and a happily ever after.
