Analysant les

mouvements et supprimant ceux qui étaient inutiles, ils diminuaient la fatigue des ouvriers et augmentaient la production des usines. Ils avaient foi en leur méthode au point de l'appliquer à leurs douze petits coquins comment apprendre une langue étrangère en se brossant les dents ? soigner à la chaîne toute une famille atteinte de rougeole ? enlever les amygdales en série ? Mais les enfants n'en faisaient parfois qu'à leur tête, provoquant une suite ininterrompue d'aventures et de gags domestiques, tous désopilants. Devenus adultes, les deux cadets entreprirent alors de raconter les mille incidents quotidiens d'une famille peu banale, la leur. En Amérique, puis en France, le succès du livre fut foudroyant Best-seller depuis 1949, cette réédition accompagne

examines a
group of
multicultural
Jewish poets
to address the issue of multilingualis
m within a
context of
minor
languages and
literatures,

nationalism, and diaspora. It introduces three writers working in minor or threatened languages who challenge the usual consensus of Jewish literature: Algerian Sadia Lévy, Israeli Margalit Matitiah, and Argentine Juan Gelman. Each of them—Lévy in French and Hebrew, Matitiah in Hebrew and Ladino, and Gelman in Spanish and Ladino—expresses a hybrid or composite Sephardic identity through a strategic choice of competing languages and intertexts. Monique R. Balbuena's close literary readings of their works, which are mostly unknown in the United States, are strongly grounded in their social and historical context. Her focus on contemporary rather than classic Ladino poetry and her argument for the inclusion of Sephardic production in the canon of Jewish literature make Homeless Tongues a timely and unusual intervention. A New Handbook to the Chapel and Castle of Rosslyn MIT Press

At one time, the use of corporal punishment by parents in child-rearing was considered normal, but in the second half of the nineteenth century this began to change, in Quebec as well as the rest of the Western world. It was during this period that the extent of ill-treatment inflicted on children—treatment once excused as good child-rearing practice—was discovered. This book analyzes both the advice provided to parents and the different forms of child abuse within families. Cliche derives her information from family magazines, reports and advice columns in newspapers, people's life stories, the records of the Montreal Juvenile Court, and even comic strips. Two dates are given particular focus: 1920, with the trial of the parents of Aurore Gagnon, which sensitized the public to the phenomenon of "child martyrs;" and 1940, with the advent of the New Education movement, which was based on psychology rather than strict discipline and religious doctrine. There has always been child abuse. What has changed is society's sensitivity to it. That is why defenders of children's rights call for the repeal of Section 43 of the Canadian Criminal Code, which authorizes "reasonable" corporal punishment. Abuse or Punishment? considers not only the history of violence towards children in Quebec but the history of public perception of this violence and what it means for the rest of Canada.

Poetica et Metrica 2. One
of the most fascinating
aspects of the

poetics of
multilingualis
m is that it
reveals
national literatures to
be an
outcome of
transcultural reflection. This kind of reflection can surface in
lexical
borrowings
and
inventions, in attempts at
imitating

in combining

experiments
presented in
this book
range from

idiosyncratic
and “forced”
solutions to the partly unconscious
creation of

from situations of Multilingualis

m, as such,
turns out to be
basic for the emergence of
vernacular
literatures.
While
research on the poetics of
m is usually restricted to specific
authors,
languages,
genres or epochs, this
book
addresses the
issue from the perspective of its general systematics, and reflects the diversity of the phenomenon. It provides facets from individual authors' poetics to conventionalised features of poetics, and from written to oral and sung products of multilingual creation. By focusing on the topic's ontology, its basic categories and relations, the volume demonstrates the fundamental importance of multilingualis m for literary and linguistic theory with studies on a number of European countries and regions, including multilingualis m in the literature and literary traditions of the Alsace, the Basque Country, England, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Ireland, the Netherlands, Russia, Sardinia, and Spain. Treize à la douzaine Wilfrid Laurier Univ. Press Essays and interviews discuss the art of John Knight, a pioneering figure in site-specific art and institutional critique. For more than four decades, the elusive but influential Los Angeles-based artist John Knight has developed a practice of site specificity that tests both architectural and ideological boundaries of the museum, gallery, and public sphere. Knight's works defy notions of stylistic coherence, even, at times, of

instant
recognizability
. Grounded in a sustained
method of inhabiting the
material,
discursive and

conditions of
varied sites,
his works
systematically
challenge

they confront

also with

and credit cards. This volume offers
essays and
interviews
that trace the critical thinking on
Knight,
discussing the
artist's
trajectory
from 1969 to 2011. These texts, by such prominent figures as
Benjamin H.
