Success is not reserved for the smartest or most talented--it's earned by those who want it the most. Heart conquers all and the triumphant always go all in, never settling for anything less than their best effort. As a leading heart transplant surgeon, Dr. Brian Lima's life story is a testament to that mantra. He's living proof that slow and steady still wins the race, and that the American Dream is alive and well. He persevered through countless challenges growing up in a Cuban immigrant family and defied the odds every step of the way. To fulfill his impossible dream, Dr. Lima opted for the road less traveled, enduring nearly twenty years of rigorous education and surgical training at some of the most prestigious institutions in the world. In Heart to Beat, Dr. Lima shares the lessons learned throughout his improbable rise to the pinnacle of success in the medical field. He breaks down the keys to advancing well beyond your comfort zone and perceived limitations, regardless of your field of interest. No dream is too far-fetched and his Heart Way approach to life will help unleash your full potential and surpass your wildest expectations!

Heart of Darkness is often considered the world's best short novel. The book serves as a bridge between the 19th century and modernism, an adventure tale revolving around the ambiguity of themes such as truth, morality, and evil. Joseph Conrad witnessed the European exploitation of the Congo with his own eyes. He once sailed up the Congo River himself to locate a countryman at a trading station deep within the country – even though this man wasn't named Kurtz. The goal and enigma of the journey have become synonymous with this name, one of the most unforgettable fictional characters of our time. JOSEPH CONRAD [1857–1924] was born in Ukraine to Polish parents, went to sea at the age of seventeen, and ended his career as a captain in the English merchant navy. His most famous work is the novella Heart of Darkness [1899], adapted into a film by Francis Ford Coppola in 1979 as Apocalypse Now.

"What would you do if this were your family?" Like every other nurse, you have heard this question dozens of times. What did you say? For many, the natural inclination is to "fix" the problem by offering suggestions, but that approach is limited by our own experience and personal biases. Let's be honest, nursing has changed. Not only is PPE in short supply, we are missing something even more basic: spiritual connection, to each other and to our work. There is a more effective way to provide spiritual care. It begins with a question, an invitation to connect. In Heart to Heart, Dr. Biedenharn explores a 400-year-old, proven, and effective model of listening, which she field-tested with critical care nurses. Through her work, she found that deep listening can lead to deep connection in healthcare. This spiritual connection doesn't just improve patient outcomes, it also helps nurses reconnect with their call to service. And it all begins with a question.

Heart 2 Heart brings together stories of patients who suffered from a serious heart condition and therefore received an LVAD (Left Ventricular Assist Device). The patients describe the various hardships they and their families endured as well as how many found hope after receiving an LVAD. Each chapter is written by a different patient or a patient's family member, creating a unique collection of stories that reveals the realities of living life with an implanted heart pump. Heart 2 Heart is composed of seventeen patient voices, where fourteen males and three females of different ethnicities and ages share with the reader their tale—from their initial diagnosis, to their eventual LVAD procedure performed at the University of Michigan Hospital. The editor, Ruth Halben, M.S.W., is a clinical social worker in the University of Michigan Health System who works with LVAD patients and their families. Ruth is one of the first LVAD social workers in the nation, and she draws both from her expertise and her heartfelt relationships with her patients to bring together this wonderful resource for current and future LVAD patients.

In this charming children's book, your child will become immersed in the heart themed, custom-made fonts. Heart shapes abound in each drawing. These can be located in the images, objects, characters and scenery within the drawings and are fun for your child to find and count. The drawings are composed and drawn like a child would draw them, and as they perceive and process their world, creating a graphic story with their unique language and disclosing new treasures of their memory in the drawings. The CAPTIONS for the drawings are uncommon and innocent "child descriptions" told in manner used by a child to describe a picture they drew. All the drawings are unique in their composition and many are drawn in a captivating non-standard perspective. This book is not only fun and engaging, but educational and thought-provoking. At the back of the book are questions for your child to ponder. In searching out the answers to the questions through their natural curiosity, a child can experience the excitement of discovery and see the wonder that is around and within them. The book also comes with the Heart2Heart Books squirrel mascot which can be colored and submitted to Heart2Heart Books. If the child's colored picture is used in future books, the child will receive attribution in the book of publication.
